

Join the engineering team of a leading healthcare tech company

ClinicalBox, Inc. is a fast growing healthcare technology company with solutions focused on coordination, patient engagement and value-based healthcare. Significant responsibilities are given to all members of the team. It's an all hands-on-deck environment that will challenge and inspire you. The impact: advances in patient care with real value generated for our customers.

ROLE : Principal Back-End Developer

DEPARTMENT: Engineering

LOCATION: Boston Office

Job Description

Full-time position to develop core back-end applications

Responsibilities

- Own back-end development focused on core Java platform

Required Background

- Strong problem solver and team player
- Experienced core Java developer with strong OO skills
- Experience using Spring & Hibernate
- Experience with MySQL, or Oracle RDBMS and a working knowledge of SQL queries and general database concepts
- Background in developing SaaS applications
- Experience with 3rd party API Integrations

Technical Challenges

- Develop core platform for healthcare patient coordination
- Implement a rule-driven workflow system to model complex coordination scenarios
- Develop a scalable architecture to support a large scale multi-organization solution

Education and Training

- Excellent written and spoken English communication
- College degree in Computer Engineering, Computer Science, Engineering or equivalent professional experience
- A minimum of four (4) years (in excess of degree requirements stated above) of progressively responsible experience in software development

CONTACT

Interested & qualified candidates, please contact:
Robert Sapiro, Chief of Staff: robert.sapiro@clinicalbox.com