

Join the engineering team of a leading healthcare tech company

ClinicalBox, Inc. is a fast growing healthcare technology company with solutions focused on coordination, patient engagement and value-based healthcare. Significant responsibilities are given to all members of the team. It's an all hands-on-deck environment that will challenge and inspire you. The impact: advances in patient care with real value generated for our customers.

ROLE : Principal Front-End Developer

DEPARTMENT: Engineering

LOCATION: Boston Office

Job Description

Full-time position to develop core front-end applications

Responsibilities

- Own front-end development focused on the middle-tier functionality and look & feel

Required Experience

- Strong problem solver and team player
- Product development using Java stack
- Experience with MVC framework such as Grails
- Hands-on experience with advanced HTML development including CSS, HTML5, XHTML, table-less layout, cross-browser compatibility
- Hands-on experience JavaScript libraries (jQuery , Prototype, Script.aculo.us, etc.)
- Experience with Agile development

Technical Challenges

- Develop a flexible, elegant and simple front-end for healthcare patient coordination
- Develop a rules-based visual workflow with an intelligent layout manager to allow rapid configuration and customization of views.
- Design a front-end architecture for multiple role-based personalized views

Education and Training

- Excellent written and spoken English communication
 - College degree in Computer Engineering, Computer Science, Engineering or equivalent professional experience
 - A minimum of four (4) years (in excess of degree requirements stated above) of progressively responsible experience in software development
-

CONTACT

Interested & qualified candidates, please contact:
Robert Sapiro, Chief of Staff: robert.sapiro@clinicalbox.com